Lead Roles Go to Warner, Lowe In Shakespeare's Comedy

It's Shakespeare who has the mind, and it's the Duke of Milan who has the production design. For the hands of the production are in the hands of the director and producer, Robert Moss, co-director; Geoffrey Cook, the designer; and David Humphrey, the producer.

Larry Warner, who played the Duke of Milan, and John Lowe, who played the Duke of Brabantio, will star in the play. The play is a comedy in four acts, and it is a play in four performances, March 25-28, at St. John's Auditorium.

Doing Your Part

One for all; and all for one. You are a single student. You cannot do everything. But you can do something. And what you can do, you should do, for your own good, everyone else's good, and the good of Joseph High School.

You don't appreciate your school? Then you aren't doing enough for it. It's different to report something that has your own best interests and maybe a little of your school in it.

You might have read recently about a high school English teacher up North who was sacked for assigning the novel 1984 (see book review below) to his students. The principal criticized the teacher. He was responsible for that action if not unknown in our area.

But at Jesuit it is a different story. Our faculty is interested enough to realize that such books as Catcher in the Rye and Lord of the Flies are good for us in that they make us think. We are not children anymore. We need books like this to stimulate our minds. When we are denied them our minds rot. We now grant that our faculty realized this and we thank them for doing so.

Book Review: '1984' by George Orwell. If you want a picture of the future, imagine a boot stamping on a human face—forever. That's what George Orwell pictures in his 1984.

Let's hope he's wrong. The world he so vividly draws is not a world we want to live in. It is a world of terror and oppression. It is a world in which the individual is crushed and the state is everything.

Book Review: 'Is French a Worthwhile Language?' by David Gray. Speaking another man's figure in the atmosphere of Jesuit high school is not a task to be undertaken lightly.
